

Number of Rides per Weekday by Rider Type

Description:

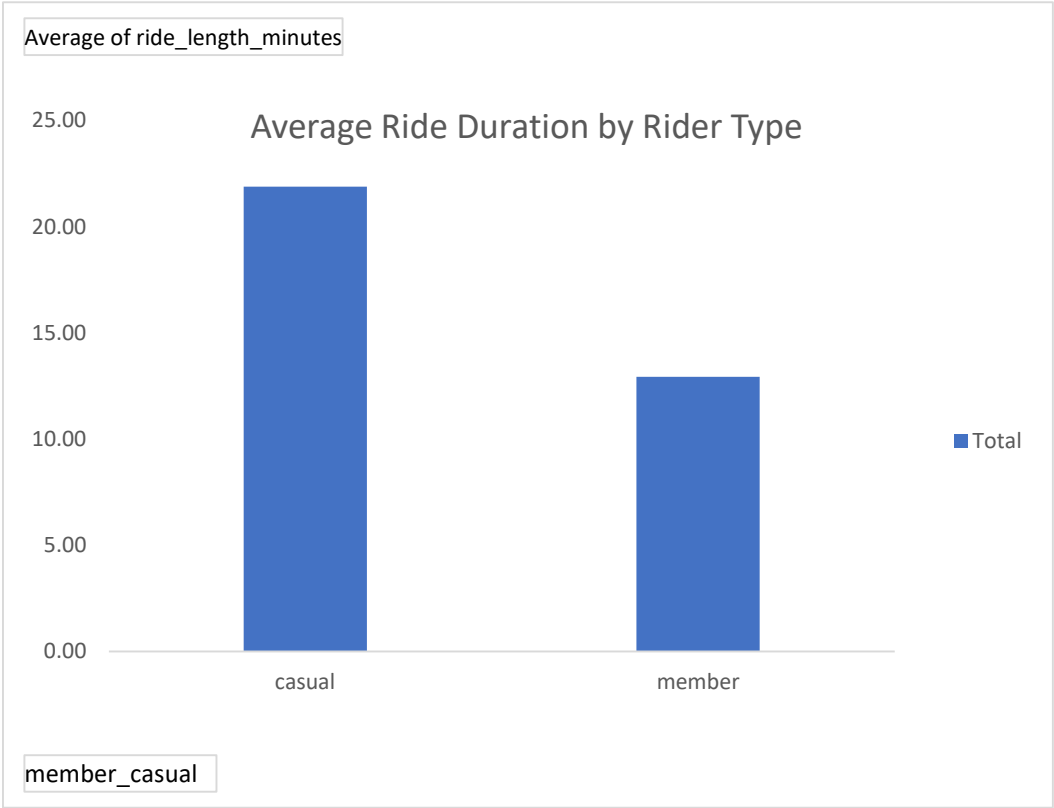

This chart shows how ride frequency varies across weekdays for both casual and member riders. Member usage peaks on weekdays, while casual riders prefer weekends. These trends help understand when each user type is most active.

Average Ride Duration by Rider Type

Description:

This chart compares the average ride duration of casual and member users. Casual riders tend to take longer trips, while member rides are shorter and more consistent, suggesting different usage behavior.

Total Rides by Rider Type

Description:

This chart displays the total number of rides taken by each rider type. Members take more rides overall, indicating stronger engagement, while casual riders contribute fewer but longer trips.

